

Thai Attorneys in Thailand

Finding a Thai attorney in Bangkok, Pattaya, Hua Hin or even Phuket can be a daunting task as foreigners unlike Hong Kong are not allowed to practice law in Thailand hence they are not registered with the local Thai bar council. With no regulation many foreign attorneys in Thailand are viewed as consultants and as they dont need to register creates a situation where you as a potential client would not even know if the person you are speaking to has ever been to law school let alone an attorney or paralegal.

There are a few ways which you could use to check on your potential Thai attorney, the first being by looking at their website to see if they list the attorneys qualification, area of expertise or where and when they graduated. A good example of what you should be looking for when hiring a Thai attorney is shown on the website of Siam Legal with their list of Thai attorneys .If they have no website ask around or search on such forums as Thai Visa where many visitors to Thailand usually ask questions. It might suprise you that they more likely than not have already asked the question so use the search facility to findout more about your Thai attorney. If you however prefer the direct approach, simply ask your attorney where and when he qualified and where he has worked before. Better yet, simply use well known and established law firms in Thailand to provide you with a guarenteed and cost effective service such as Siam Legal!
